Fine Elm Tree Planted On Main St. To Memory Washington

Last Friday afternoon at two fifteen o'clock as announced in The Herald, The Village Improvement Society arranged the planting of an elm tree to the memory of George Washington in this Bicentennial year. The tree was planted on Main street in front of the Unitarian Church and was brought to Northfield and placed under the direction of Mr. Frank Foster, the tree warden of the Highway department for this district and his assistant Mr. Albert Townsend. Students of the High School and Center school marched to the scene of the planting and Mr. Carl Mason, President of the Society presided. The large audience which had gathered and the students sang the Washington Song under direction of Miss Webster. Superintendent L. W. Robbins spoke briefly on Washington and the significance of planting a tree to his memory in Northfield. Mr. Frank H. Montague, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen was then called upon to plant the tree and accept the same in behalf of the town after which the audience joined in singing "America, the Beautiful" and the exercises were ended.

The hole for the planting of the tree was dug by three members of the Everready 4-H Club, Clarence Webber, Raymond Miller and Eddie Lucier, under the supervision of Mr. Harry James who also arranged the flag display of the signal flags loaned by Mr. William J. McRoberts of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. A. P. Pitt of the Historical Society distributed song sheets of the Washington Song as souvenirs of the event. The Village Improvement Society is to be commended in this tree planting as a life memorial of our first President. The tree was brought from the State Nurseries on Friday morning.

Christmas Seal Sale Arrangements Made

Plans for the launching of the 26th annual sale of Christmas seals were made at the meeting of the board of directors of the Franklin County Public Health association last Friday afternoon.

The seals show two children outside a church listening to the Christmas carols and then singing lustily with the invisible choir.

Mrs. F. E. Chapman, first vice-president, said, "The fact that 29 per cent of all deaths of women, and 21 per cent of all deaths of men between the ages of 20-29 years in the United States in 1931 occurred from tuberculosis shows how serious the need is for continuing the work of the tuberculosis associations in preventing and controlling tuberculosis."

Northfield is represented by membership in the organization and the seals will be offered for sale here.

Local Eastern Star Has Annual Inspection

Masonic Hall was filled to capacity on Wednesday evening of this week by members of the Order of the Eastern Star to witness the inspection of the Chapter by Deputy Grand Matron Mrs. Maude R. Houghton and Deputy Grand Marshal Mrs. Mabel T. Smith both from Worcester, Mass.

Members of the order were present from Orange, Greenfield, Turners Falls, Montague, Southfield, Shelburne Falls, Springfield, Westfield, Pittsfield, Brattleboro, Vt., and South Londonderry, Vt., and other places. The work with Mrs. Mattern as the Matron was exemplified in a most creditable manner. Music was furnished by a large choir of mixed voices. During the evening a quilt made by the Past Matrons of Northfield Chapter was presented to the Matron of the Eastern Star Home for use in the Home. Preceding the meeting a fine banquet was served in the banquet hall by Mrs. C. E. Leach and her committee.

Fifty Years Ago Wedding Anniversary

Celebrating an event which happened fifty years ago Mr. and Mrs. Edward Newton celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary, last Monday evening as the guests of the Jordan family, at their residence on Wanamaker Road.

The Anniversary celebration was attended by Mr. Fred Newton and his son, Stanley, and by Mr. Bert Newton, comprising the immediate relatives. Gathered in the living rooms were about sixty-five of the honored couple's friends, neighbors, and well-wishers.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton were seated in a bay window which was banked with autumn sprays and flowers. Over their heads was an arch and a white and gold bell. About them in a circle sat those who had come to congratulate them.

Mrs. Newton was presented with a bouquet of roses earlier in the evening, and later when all guests had arrived, Mrs. Henrietta Hoyle made a speech presenting a wedding cake for Mrs. Newton to cut. Following the cutting of the cake Mrs. Hoyle presented a tray of gifts consisting of a gift of gold amounting to eighty dollars, as well as many other tokens of esteem and affection. Mr. Newton was called upon to speak and he thanked all his friends especially the Jordan family for their kind consideration.

Following these formalities, Madames Hoyle and MacDonald and Miss Frieda Jordan acted as hostesses while refreshments of punch, ice-cream, and cakes were served. After an hour's exchange of pleasantries and visiting the celebration was brought to a close, each guest leaving with the customary slice of wedding cake wrapped in golden paper to dream on.

Outside of town guests included friends and well-wishers from Greenfield, Millers Falls and Brattleboro.

In Labrador With Grenfell

Under the auspices of Pine Tree 4-H Club, Prof. F. C. Sears of Massachusetts State College will give a stereopticon lecture on Grenfell and Labrador, Tuesday evening, October 26, at seven-thirty o'clock at the Town Hall.

Wherever Prof. Sears has shown these pictures they have been enthusiastically received not only because of their unusual pictorialness but for their educational value and their truthfully revealing topography of Labrador and the work of Sir Wilfred Grenfell.

Prof. Sears is adequately fitted to give this lecture as he has made a number of trips to Labrador with Doctor Grenfell and has given much time to the experiment of raising vegetables in that cold, bleak, unproductive land, from plants raised in a small hot house there. The pictures he shows were taken on his various trips.

The Pine Tree 4-H Club has become interested in the need of the Labrador people who are facing a desolate winter. The depression has effected their meager industries of fishing and hand work to an appalling degree. The club is giving the entire proceeds of the entertainment to this urgent cause.

It is hoped that the community will give their hearty support to this project work of our boys. This is the club that gave, under the leadership of Mr. Clifford Field, such an outstanding demonstration of 4-H work at the Grange Hall last spring.

G. O. P. Town Committee Held Optimistic Session

The Northfield Republican Town Committee held an interesting meeting in the Selectmen's room of Town Hall last Friday evening to consider arrangements for the getting out of a full vote for the Republican candidates at the coming election. Mr. T. F. Darby the chairman presided and Mrs. W. G. Webber, the secretary, presented some very important facts of the Republican campaign. It is possible that a campaign gathering will be held in Town Hall soon and our citizens invited to attend. Enthusiasm preceded the session and the outlook for a complete Republican victory in November was forecast.

Dr. Cutler Sailed Tuesday For Europe

Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Cutler have been very busy the past week saying good bye to their friends previous to their departure for Europe. They sailed on Tuesday on the Berengaria for Europe and will spend the winter and next summer in France. The best wishes of a host of friends will follow them on their sojourn and travels in a foreign land. To the Editor of the Herald Dr. Cutler expressed himself as much pleased at the opportunity of seeing Europe and observing its changes since the World War.

Voters Gain

A big gain in the registration of voters resulted at the last sitting of the Board of Registrars in the Selectmen's Room in Town Hall on Wednesday. A total of 62 names were added to Northfield's voting population and all largely as a result of the work of the women's division of the local Town Committee.

Fire Destroys House Saturday Night At South Vernon

Fire completely destroyed a two-family house and barn at South Vernon last Saturday night located on the road to the freight house, at the side of the brook and to the rear of the property of Mr. Herbert Buffum. Although smoke had been smelled for some time the fire did not break out until about 10:30 o'clock when flames breaking out in the rear of the premises drove the occupants to a hurried exit to the street. A call by telephone to the Northfield Exchange quickly brought the Northfield Fire Department under Chief Stearns to the scene and two streams of water pumped from a pond by the new apparatus were played upon the blazing structure and upon the adjoining building of Mr. Buffum in order to save it. The property consisting of a house and barn was completely destroyed and produced a spectacle lighting up the sky for miles.

It was owned by the R. W. Russell Estate of which Mr. A. A. Dunklee is administrator and was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Bryant, his mother and her sister, who lived upstairs. Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Glover and son occupied the tenement downstairs. Both families lost practically everything although the two automobiles in the barn were removed safely and the horse of the mail carrier Mr. E. L. Brooks was rescued and removed to safety by Mr. H. L. Laplante. Neighbors and volunteers worked quickly but the fire once started, burned briskly and left no time for salvage.

Rev. and Mrs. George A. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Labelle gave shelter to their neighbors for the night. The dividing line between Vermont and Massachusetts ran through the house but the larger part of the property was in Massachusetts. The property was fully insured although the tenants it is said were not covered. The firemen did splendid service to the best of their ability and appreciation has been stated of the telephone operator who quickly gave the alarm. For a short time South Vernon was without light owing to falling wires. This is the sixth or seventh fire in South Vernon in recent years.

More than 200 members of the Franklin County Federation of Church Brotherhoods at the annual fall convention Monday evening in Greenfield were told by the Very Rev. Percy E. "The infinite," he said, "is difficult for the finite mind to comprehend."

Rev. Dr. Edrop, one of the most dynamic speakers heard in Greenfield for some time, addressed the brotherhood on "The Bible." His speech, through hardly more than 15 minutes long, stressed the growing necessity of religion in the daily life of today and included a comprehensive study of the changing moods of the generations.

The convention, held at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, was opened at 6:30 with a supper in the church dining rooms.

Mount Hermon Boys On Outside Teams

Interest in soccer at the school on the hill is heightened by the fact that Maxwell '31, played last week on the Yale varsity team, scoring against M. I. T.

Cross country squads are seen on the highways every day now. These hard-working youngsters bear in mind that "K. D." Warner '30, was on the Olympic 400-meter relay team which broke the world and the Olympic records at Los Angeles, and that he anchored the American team which defeated the British Empire team at San Francisco after the Olympics were over.

W. J. Thompson '32, is the first one of this year's grads to be heard from on the college teams; he played fourth for New Hampshire university against Northeastern in the freshman races Saturday. Fred Hubert, also '32, is listed on the Harvard freshman cross country squad.

"Bill" Eastman is playing center on the Dickinson college freshman football team, and two men from Hermon '30, Bartlett and Mercer were on the Wesleyan team, last week when they played Connecticut State.

Paul Wing, of Sandwich, Hermon '30, has made the M. I. T. junior-varsity crew.

Aldrich of High Street, Montague City, was stolen Monday night from its parking place on Fourth Street, Turners Falls at 11 p. m. and at 11:30 local police responded to a call from High Street, where the missing car was found. Geologists Here To Study Our Rocks And Their Formation

During the past week many of our citizens have observed a party of ten or twelve men in a number of automobiles designated U. S. G. S. which means United States Geological Survey in various sections of the town and vicinity studying and testing rock formation. They seemed to be particularly interested in the rocks of the "Triassic age" and secured splendid specimens of the red "pudding stone" sandstone on the road cut on the highway adjoining the Carmean property. Other places were visited and specimens secured. The territory about our town abounds in stone of the earliest age and shows

The world needs the application of the principles of Freemasonry through the individual and social life of its devotees more, perhaps, than at any time in the history of the Craft. Amidst world economic depression and attack on doctrines sacred for centuries, Masonry, without cant and without pretense, yet anchored in a firm faith in God, stands erect, teaching all the human virtues which make it a great active, rational, moral force in the world.

The plans to seek out the individual Mason and have him understand that he is an integral part of the Craft will be hailed with approval by every member. But what is needed is to realize the significance of the question: For what purpose have you come here?

It should be remembered by each brother that there is no activity in life either individual or collective, whether in lodge room or out of it, whether in business or at play, whether in private or political life, where the principles of Masonry may not or should not be invoked. The present condition of the country and the world calls for just such devotion by Masons to their teachings.

Masonry is universal. Let it be universally felt. But its exemplifications must begin with the individual and end with the individual, for the responsibility by every word, look and act is individual. Motivated by the highest principles, Masons stand as individual mentors of the finest practical ideals of life.

The radio has indeed proved itself not as a luxury but as a necessity in these days of political strife and turmoil. With the nation in distress, suffering from a depression of three years but now being guided to safety and progress, the average American citizen may sit at his fireside and listen to the presentation of the claims and pretensions of their parties claims to preference in the coming election. Of the two major parties, no leader has given a more intelligent presentation of facts than President Hoover and one must be convinced after listening over the radio, that the party now in power, with President Hoover at its head deserves another election victory. A party with performance is more to be desired in power than a party with promises only and only theoretical in its understanding of American progress.

The Editor some years ago was rated in New York State as a good "Democrat" and a good Democratic Editor at that. The good wife was the first woman in that town to be selected as a member of the Democratic Town Committee and when the National Democratic Convention was held in old Madison Square Garden we were honored with a front seat and a ticket good for all sessions. That Convention will be remembered by many as historical now, it was the convention when Smith kept McAdoo from chasing the presidential hope. But more important than that was the fact that many Democrats disgusted with the party's behavior at that time left its ranks and allied themselves with the Republican party as a party giving expression to true Americanism, the development of the individual and the progress of the nation.

An echo of that convention in New York was observed in the recent Democratic Convention in Chicago when McAdoo turned the trick on Smith. Running true to form the Democratic party can always be counted upon as doing the wrong thing at the wrong time and today organized only for self seeking politicians is not to be trusted to do the right thing at the right time for the country or its people. No—we are not Democrats now—but loyal Republicans these many years striving to do our share with Republican ideals to make the place wherein we live, a better community for our presence and our country a greater nation, through Republican principles and effort.

Concert Series At Greenfield

Under the auspices of the Greenfield Womans Club a series of concerts will be given this winter for the 19th season. The course will open Thursday evening October 20th at the High School Auditorium with the Compinsky Trio, Sara at the piano, Manuel violin, and Alex cello. The sister and her two brothers though of Russian birth, have lived much of their lives in England. They have performed before King George and Queen Mary, and are distinguished by playing entirely from memory. The second concert of the series will be given by Efrem Zimbalist, on Thursday Jan. 19, 1933, and the third will be a song recital by Ernest Davis, operatic tenor of New York City. Tickets for the series may be purchased to advantage at the door for $2.50, the night of the concert. Young people or students tickets for $1.00 for the series.

Hoover Asks That People Help Jobless

President Hoover joined with other prominent speakers in appealing for funds for unemployment relief this winter, on the radio the other night. The President was introduced on the radio by Walter S. Gifford, in New York. Newton D. Baker spoke on the same program from Cleveland. Gifford is chairman of the President's committee on unemployment relief.

Mr. Hoover said: "I have confident faith that the overwhelming majority of our people will not allow themselves to be tempted into doing less than their utmost in a cause so charged with civic duty and so rich in appeal to every generous instinct of their hearts.

"For the past two winters, this campaign for community funds for relief was carried on by committees which were organized specifically for that purpose. This year the National Association of Community Chests has taken the responsibility of organizing the work of voluntary giving in every community.

"No richer blessing can fill your own hearts than the consciousness on some bleak winter's evening that your generosity has lighted a fire upon some family's hearth that otherwise would be black and cold, and has spread some family table with good where otherwise children would be wanting. I wish my last word to you to be the word 'give.'

Tibbets—Gray South Vernon Wedding

On Tuesday October 12th in the South Vernon Church Dorothy Louise Gray became the bride of Rev. Benjamin David Tibbets in a pretty wedding ceremony performed at noon by Rev. George A. Gray the father of the bride. To the music of the organ the bridegroom, followed by his brother, Lester Tibbets, the best man, took their places at the altar. The maid of honor, Miss Florence Porter, and bridesmaid, Miss Eleanor Brown, led the way for the bride, who was preceded by the flower girl, Alma Dunklee. The double ring service was used in the ceremony.

The bride wore a beautiful dress of white satin and a veil of Shantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Florence Porter of Springfield, Mass., maid of honor, wore a blue chiffon velvet gown and carried Talisman roses.

The ushers were Ernest W. Dunklee and Victor Vaughan. The organist was Prof. Leonard Ellinwood of Mt. Hermon.

They left for Maine for their honeymoon and will make their home at Louden Ridge.

The heartiest good wishes of a host of friends go with them.

Mrs. Tibbets is a graduate from B. M. C. Durfee high school, and Thibodeau Business school. She also had a fine musical training, being an excellent pianist and cellist.

Rev. Mr. Tibbets graduated from Brooks high school in Maine and New England School of Theology in Boston. He received vocal instruction in the New England Conservatory of Music. A group of prominent Democrats from the various parts of Franklin County held a gathering in Greenfield last week Wednesday to consider some form of organization and after talking and discussing the matter with officials of the State Committee voted to organize the Franklin County Democratic Club. Akey of Greenfield, first vice-president, John Roche of Orange; second vice-presidents, Albert Guibault of Turners Falls, Miss Dorothy Jardine of Greenfield, Miss Annie Campbell of Northfield, Frank Merrigan of South Deerfield; executive secretary, Mrs. Anne Grogan of Greenfield; treasurer, Miss Nellie Sheehy of Greenfield; financial secretary, Miss Catherine Horrigan of Turners Falls.

Lawler, chairman of the local town committee, who after lauding Gov. Joseph B. Ely's record in office and predicting his reelection, introduced the speakers who included State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley of Cambridge. Mr. Hurley paid a fine tribute to Mr. John W. Halig, his predecessor in office who is a Republican.

Poet's Corner

"GOD'S WORLD"

Oh, World, I cannot hold thee close enough!
Thy winds, thy wide grey skies!
Thy mists that roll and rise!
Thy woods, this Autumn day, that ache and sag
To crash! To lift the ban of that gaunt crag!
And all but cry with color! That black bluff!
World, I cannot get thee close enough!

Long have I known a glory in it all.
But never knew this;
Here such a passion is
As stretcheth me apart. Lord I do fear
Thou'st made the world too beautiful this year.
My soul is all but out of me; let fall
No burning leaf; prithee, let no bird call.
Edna St. Vincent Millay.

VIEWPOINTS

A stretch of sunny valley,
With a river deep and still
Reflecting crimson maples,
Near a granite, pine clad hill.

Three men beheld this vista,
Gazed at the self same scene,
But each saw the lovely picture.
Adapted to his theme.

The manufacturer saw the hill,
Shorn of its perfect pines,
A factory's busy hum he heard,
Beheld tall smoke stacks shin

Saw water wheels, and floating logs
And houses, row on row,
Belching steam, and loaded trucks,
Heard summoning whistles blow.

The farmer visioned fields of corn,
And hives of swarming bees,
Cattle grazing by the stream,
Orchards of fruit trees.

Smelled the stacks of new mown hay
These valley fields would raise.
Saw snug farm house, tobacco barns,
Such things had filled his days.

The artist feasted seeing eyes
Upon the colors grand,
The greens, the blues, the scarlet trees,
His mind then wrought a plan.

He did not dream of fame and power,
Nor things he might acquire
But saw a picture he would paint,
His comrades to inspire.

SWEET SLEEP

Sleep Sweet within this quiet room
O thou! who'er thou art,
Disturb not mournful yesterday.
Nor let tomorrow scare thy rest.

With dreams of coming ill;
Thy Maker is thy changeless friend,

His love surrounds thee still,
Forget thyself and all the world,
Put out each feverish light,

The stars are watching overhead.

Sleep Sweet! Good night! Good night!

GIVE US GRACE

"We thank Thee for this place in which we dwell; for the love that unites us; for the peace accorded us this day; for the hope with which we expect the morrow; for the health, the work, the food and the bright skies that make our lives delightful; for our friends in all parts of the earth, and our friendly helpers in this foreign isle. Give us courage and gaiety and the quiet mind. Spare to our friends, soften to us our enemies. Bless us, if it may be, in all our innocent endeavors. If it may not, give us the strength to encounter that which is to come, that we be brave in peril, constant in tribulation, temperate in wrath, and in all changes of fortune, and down to the gates of death, loyal and loving one to another."

By Robert Louis Stevenson.

Advertising Plays Part In Economic Recovery Says President Fry

Advertising is scheduled to play an important part in the economic recovery that is now under way in the United States, and it is the duty of the bankers of the country to consider its importance, according to Wilfred W. Fry, president of the N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., a Philadelphia advertising firm and President of the Northfield Schools who spoke before the American Bankers' Association at Los Angeles recently.

Mr. Fry who is also a director of the First National Bank of Philadelphia, declared that "where advertising is wasted it usually means bad judgment, incompetence, lack of foresight or bad cooperation somewhere along the line."

He pointed out that it is an obvious fact that many of the leading businesses of America today have grown to their great importance through the power of advertising.

Holding that advertising always should be considered as a business enterprise and not as a magic formula for unearned success, Mr. Fry told the bankers that the majority of them either take no advice at all on advertising matters or are prone to treat that item with too scant attention.

"Too often," he continued, "the basis of discussion when it comes to the advertising appropriation of a company bankers are supporting, is one of personal friendship, hearsay or private opinion. At that point it seems to be forgotten that an advertising relationship merits a thoroughly informed judgment."

"The banker is, naturally, interested in the cost of advertising and how appropriations are arrived at. An analysis of the business and its market does not always suggest the amount of money that should be devoted to developing these markets. The actual sales or potential sales of the article, the amount of resistance encountered and its length of life or turnover are important factors."

"Not infrequently the advertising counselor is brought into touch with accounts where there is a preconceived idea of spending a considerably larger amount of money than can wisely be recommended. Competent counsel as to when not to spend money is as important as advice on how money may be wisely spent."

"All advertising should be based upon the idea of continuity and appropriations so planned that they may be increased with the increase of business."

The banker has a right to expect, on the creative side of advertising, the assembly and use of talent of the highest order. Not only knowledge of art but the ability to apply art in practical fashion to the service of industry and commerce. The art of picture, of the brush and the camera, the art on the written and spoken word.

"All successful advertising is based on understanding of human nature, and the most skillful advertising writers are those who combine such sympathy and understanding with the art of presentation."

Miss Bush, head of the Art Department of the School, says that the pictures are different from the expectations of many of the visitors. There are no landscapes. The subject matter is startling. Automobiles, Swift Premium hams, rolls of paper, oil wells and dishes are among the subjects. Of the fifty odd pictures here, only about five are of human interest. This, too, is a surprise to the visitor.

To appreciate this exhibit no sense of art is needed. A person not trained in art can see that the balance of light and darkness is the greatest thing in the pictures. The emphasis of all but one picture is on the balance of light and dark. The one picture of bananas is colored. This shows the progress made in Photography in getting colored pictures without painting.

Pictures that the visitor would be wise to notice in particular are THE POLE WALKER, THE EMPIRE BUILDING, as reflected in a shop window; the character study of THE FOUNDRYMAN, THE INTERIOR VIEWS and the GLASS BOWLS. Edward Weston's pictures should be noticed because of their texture and unusual subject matter.

This particular exhibit was brought here mainly because the students enjoy taking pictures and this might be an incentive for them to improve their work. The students may improve their backgrounds and lighting after seeing these. It was brought here in the fall because the light is still good enough for picture taking.

The town's people who have seen this exhibit have enjoyed it. Miss Bush extends a welcome to any who wish to see it before it closes on October 22nd. It is being shown from 1:30 to 5:30 every afternoon.

Gill Potato Crop

Big crops of spuds are the rule in Franklin County this year. Joseph Zynna, a leading Gill grower, did his digging early this week under the supervision of Joseph H. Putnam, agent of the county extension service, in the hope of qualifying for the 300-bushels-to-the-acre club, a favored circle which he joined in 1930 and continued his membership in 1931. To Mr. Zynna's keen pleasure Mr. Putnam was able to certify his crop as averaging 587.76 bushels to the acre. Another big crop dug a few days ago was at Mt. Hermon school, where an average of 496.5 bushels was recorded. Mr. Zynna hopes to be returned as county and possibly state champion, but none can tell about that until after all crops are dug, and the way they are turning out, it looks as though there would be some hot competition for state honors, a 600-bushel to the acre yield having already been recorded in Middlesex County.

For several years on adjoining farms in Gill there has been a lot potato rivalry between Lewis Munn, Joseph Jurjewicz and Joseph Zynna. It started in 1929 when Mr. Munn won the state championship with an average yield of 415 bushels to the acre. That season Mr. Munn introduced the first potato picker in the country and met with great success in its operation.

In 1930 honors were won by Joseph Jurjewicz, who scored with a bumper crop of 596 bushels to the acre which captured both the county and state championships. A grower from the eastern part of the state was second and in third place was William D. Pieron of Charlemont, with a crop of 509 bushels.

Last year Pieron took first honors with 481.4 bushels to the acre and Jurjewicz came second with 460 bushels; while Munn was third with 453. In all eight entrants to the 300 bushel contest made the grade in 1931, which was an unusually large number, although this mark will probably be beaten this year.

Keen interest will follow the remainder of the digging of this season on account of the big yields which are being encountered. And if a 600-bushel crop has been harvested in Middlesex county there is no reason why that mark or a little less may not be achieved in Franklin.

Dunklee Is Nominated

At the recent Vernon town representative caucus Ernest W. Dunklee of South Vernon, Republican and farmer, received the nomination defeating the present representative, Mrs. B. H. Newton, Republican, by a vote of 67 to 36.

The caucus was held for the reason that at the primary election in September the ballot box for town representative was turned before the time for balloting legally expired and no nomination was declared.

Mr. Dunklee has served in the legislature twice as representative and once as senator. Mrs. Newton, who is town clerk, has served as representative for the last three sessions.

Fox Film Adaptation Of Sensational Coast To Coast Radio Mystery To Be Shown With Edmund Lowe In Title Role And
 Bela Lugosi As Roxor

"Chandu The Magician," popular mystery drama of the air, filmed as a feature by Fox, will reach the screen at the Lawler Theatre next Sunday through Wednesday with Edmund Lowe portraying the great worker-of-magic in the title role.

Each dramatic situation in the picture was taken from the original story written by Harry A. Earnshaw, Vera M. Oldham and R. R. Morgan, and all are said to have been cleverly woven into a tensely exciting film play by the well-known screen writing team of Philip Klein and Barry Connors.

Co-directed by Marcel Varnel and William Cameron Menzies, "Chandu The Magician" is said to be the last word in spine-quivering entertainment. Especially is this true of the settings and photography, Edmund Lowe, armed with the power of Oriental magic, plays the title role in "Chandu The Magician," the Fox Films adaptation of the sensational radio mystery.

both of which came under the supervision of Menzies, formerly an art director and winner of the Academy award for unusual set designing.

The locale of the plot is along the upper reaches of the Nile River where Lowe, as Chandu, goes in search of the arch-fiend, Roxor, played by Bela Lugosi, chief villain of the film. Chandu's effort to regain possession of a powerful Death Ray stolen by Roxor furnishes the chief conflict of the story.

Further drama is furnished when Roxor attempts to force the beautiful Egyptian Princess Nadji to lend him the support of her people, and when he also kidnaps the family of the man who invented the Death Ray.

Other familiar characters are Regent, the inventor; Dorothy, his wife; Betty Lou and Bobby, played respectively by Henry Walthall, Virginia Hammond, June Vlasek and Nestor Aber. Irene Ware, beautiful "Vanities" queen and "Miss America" of 1929, enacts the role of Princess Nadji in the feminine lead. The romance that develops between her and Lowe fulfills the love interest of the picture, which is said to be replete with suspense, hilarious comedy, and an awe-inspiring climax that features the threatened destruction of the world by the Death Ray.

Cinderella, with her fairy godmother beside her, has ridden down Hollywood Boulevard again.

It's the oldest story in the books...the tale of the unassuming Cinderella upon whom Dame Fortune casts a smile and the crown of a princess. It's an old story and yet it is always new, always thrilling.

Prince Destiny, with the golden slipper of fame in his hand, found the foot of Dorothy Wilson parked beneath a stenographer's desk at the RKO-Radio studio.

One week she was typing the script of "The Age of Consent," content with her $25 salary, happy to have a job at all in these times.

The next week she was playing the lead in the story she had typed. And now she is making her debut in the photoplay at the Lawler Theatre.

Dorothy worked at the studio for two years. She was one of the prettiest girls on the lot. But if none of the directors ever thought of suggesting a screen test to Dorothy, she herself had even less interest in acting. She had seen pretty girls by the dozens eking out a dreary existence in the ranks of extras. Twenty-five dollars a week look good enough to Dorothy.

And then one afternoon the Radio Pictures production head finished reading the synopsis of "The Age of Consent" and requested the stenographic department for a complete script.

His mind was occupied with the story, his thoughts filled with the types which would best suit the roles of gay young college boys and girls.

It was Dorothy who brought him his script, and a sudden hunch caused him to ask: "Have you ever taken a screen test? Would you like to act?"

Dorothy wasn't overthrilled. She was willing but not eager to be photographed and to have her voice recorded.

They gave her a script to read...the script which she almost knew by heart from having typed it several times. The test was taken, and Dorothy so impressed the boss she was signed for a term contract and given the lead in the college play as her first part.

Her job as a stenographer at RKO was offered Dorothy shortly after she arrived in Hollywood from Minneapolis where she was born and educated. An employment agency gave the girl her choice between calls from a studio and a hole-saler paper house.

It's the story of Cinderella, all right. Or maybe the fable of the four-leaf clover just outside the front door of the man who roamed the world looking for one.

"The Age of Consent" which is based on "Crossroads," a play by Martin Flavin, boasts a cast composed of Eric Linden, Arline Judge, Richard Cromwell, John Halliday, Aileen Pringle and Reginald Barlow.

"HELL'S HIGHWAY" HOLDS CHAIN GANG SENSATION

Fatal Sweat Box One Feature of Intensely Powerful Theme Starring Richard Dix

Just as the Western Continent is waking up to the startling abuses that have been revealed in the convict road labor system of this country, Richard Dix brings to the talking screen a role that is sensational and timely.

With a background of realism based upon convict camp travail, Dix plays the role of a forthright prisoner who revolts at the cruelties practised upon his fellow convicts under the guise of discipline. In "Hell's Highway," RKO Radio Picture, Dix is a convict of the hard-boiled type so far as his offenses against society are concerned, but is a soft-hearted, sympathetic character toward his fellow-sufferers in the camp. Particularly outstanding are the sacrifices he makes for his younger brother (Tom Brown) who is thrown into the camp also as a prisoner. This situation rises above even the startling realism of the picture. How Dix preserves the romance apparently hopeless of the younger brother with his sweetheart (Rochelle Hudson) at the price of his own doom makes a heart touching climax.

Resentful Doomed Men

"Hell's Highway" is the ironic title of a road upon which a contractor is working a chain gang under the driving cruelty of subsidized prison guards. A kaleidoscope of amazingly vivid camp routine is shown, the like of which has never reached the screen before. Highlights in this routine are the maddening punishments imposed upon men who fail in their tasks or who fall into disfavor for other reasons. The notorious "sweat box" ordeal is one conspicuous point about which the exciting plot revolves. An impressive spectacular event in the production, directed by Rowland Brown, is the prison camp revolt with its mass turmoil.

Dix in Fine Form

The virile hero role played by Richard Dix is different from any he has had before, yet it is one that provides unusual scope for his powers, and he is said to play it with a tense sincerity likely to bring him new laurels as the foremost of the screen's he-men.

Besides Tom Brown and Rochelle Hudson, in support are C. Henry Gordon, Stanley Fields, Clarence Muse, Louise Carter, Charles Middleton and Oscar Apfel, besides a negro chorus of twenty-five who sing strange, stirring songs fitted to the action, which is replete with comedy as well as pathos.

"Hell's Highway" will be seen at the Lawler Theatre for three days beginning Thursday, October 27.

"American Madness," Columbia's dramatic spectacle romanticizing the melodrama dealing with the America of today, is the current feature, now playing at the Garden Theatre.

Walter Huston, regarded as one of America's finest actors, is seen in the featured role, that of a great banker whose courage and foresight prevent the ruin of his bank as well as the breaking up of his domestic life.

Kay Johnson, the blonde actress who has appeared in "Dynamite" and other films, plays Huston's wife. Constance Cummings, last seen in "Attorney for the Defense," and Pat O'Brien, who was the hero of the "The Front Page," play the juvenile leads. Gavin Gordon, remembered as Garbo's leading man in "Romance," plays the heavy. In addition to those well-known players, the cast includes more than a score of such character actors as Robert Ellis, Edwin Maxwell, Arthur Hoyt, Edward Martindale, Burton Churchill and Robert Emmett O'Connor.

The timeliness of "American Madness" is hailed as one of its outstanding features. "American Madness" has dramatized the leading topics of the day.

According to critics in other cities where it has been shown, "American Madness" is one of the outstanding pictures and will merit serious consideration when the best ten films of 1932 are chosen. "American Madness" was directed by Frank Capra, who has turned out numerous successes, including "Submarine," "Flight," "Dirigible," "Ladies of Leisure" and "Forbidden."

Columbia gave a big production to this romantic melodrama. More than a thousand players participated in the exciting bank run scenes. The bank set itself was one of the largest ever used in any picture. It contained properties valued at upwards of $250,000 to lend realism to the interior bank scenes.

All Hollywood records for the length of time required to achieve stardom have been broken by Marlene Dietrich, star of "Blonde Venus," which comes to the Garden Theater Saturday for four days.

One picture was enough to make her a star, two enough to make her what showmen call a "box-office natural." Though "Blonde Venus" is but the fifth English-language picture in which she has appeared, she rates today as one of the handful of stars who are unchallenged in their stardom, come what may.

"Morocco" was Marlene Dietrich's first picture out of Hollywood. Overnight she was the sensation of the nation's screens. Theater-goers everywhere joined the critics in hailing her.

But "Morocco" was not her first English-speaking picture. Josef von Sternberg, who directed her in that and the succeeding pictures in which she appeared, discovered her in the cast of a Berlin musical comedy, and signed her to play opposite Emil Jannings in "The Blue with the money necessary to send her husband abroad to get medical attention. Soon, however, she is seriously in love with her benefactor, and the complications that ensue when her husband returns and discovers the source of the funds and the manner in which they were procured, lead to a dramatic climax.

Being penny-wise hurts. But it pays. That conclusion has been reached by Thomas Meighan, noted screen star, featured with Jack Oakie, Marian Nixon, Warren Hymer, William Collier, Sr., William Boyd and ZaSu Pitts in "Madison Square Garden," drama set against the kaleidoscopic background of New York's famed civic, social and athletic center, which comes to the Garden Theater next Wednesday for three days.

Meighan, skyrocketed to fame through his work in the silent version of "The Miracle Man," back in 1919, found the monetary returns as large as the returns in plaudits. And the temptation to splurge with the former was equally as large.

The number of things which he could afford was limitless. Precedent demanded that he be lavish. Even the largest pay check can disappear like water in the desert under such conditions.

But Meighan decided he'd try to get along without all the things he could afford, and that he'd be a little less than lavish. The balance went into the bank, even though it hurt for the first few years.

Now he doesn't regret it. He's rated as one of the wealthiest actors in the country. He owns extensive estates at Great Neck, L. I., and East Port Richie, Fla. When he feels the urge to work, he accepts one of the numerous screen contracts offered him. And there are enough to permit him to choose only good ones. Otherwise, he can rest and play.

In "Madison Square Garden," he plays the role of Carley, millionaire president of "The Garden." The picture, like "Grand Hotel," "Union Depot," and others of the one-location type, deals with a group of people of diversified backgrounds who glide briefly into the action, and then out again, their lives changed by the events in which they have participated. The story of the arrival at "The Garden" of a manager and two protégés, and the latter's love affairs with two girl telegraph operators, binds the action together.

Sam Higginbottom
Speaks At HermonCounty Commissioner
Given Surprise Party

Mr. Sam Higginbottom, a graduate of Mount Hermon in 1899, head of the famous agricultural institute at Allahabad, India, spoke to the student body and faculty of Mount Hermon school last Thursday noon at chapel. Mr. Higginbottom is planning to return to India within a few weeks after having spent almost a half year in this country raising money for his work.

The Kaiser-I-Hind gold medal (the name is the native phrase for Emperor of India) was awarded him in 1924 by the King of England and Emperor of India in recognition for his public service for the people of that land. He has also been awarded honorary degrees from Princeton, his alma mater, and from Amherst College.

Starting originally from the idea that no independent Christian church could be possible in India until a way was made for low caste converts to win a better livelihood, Mr. Higginbottom has gradually gone on to develop the reach of his methods until now he has among his students almost as many high caste as low caste people. More remarkable still, he has been successful in defying caste traditions entirely so that low caste and high caste students lodge together in the same dormitories and eat at the same tables.

This is the price which even Hindus are willing to pay for the sake of learning the secret of developing India's agricultural possibilities to the place where farming will afford the tremendous population of the country a sufficiency of food as well as a decent living to agricultural workers.
